Seniors History

In the fall of 1938 the graduating class of 1941 entered their first year of education. Four students, Velma Yates, Ronald Russell, Phyllis Mallory, and Glenn Wulf have been together all through their twelve years in school at Yamhill.

The portals of Yamhill High opened wide in the fall of 1947 when thirty-seven unassured freshmen made their entrance. Lovely dark-haired Donna Beahm was carnival princess. Thelma Vandehy and Evelyn Martin were elected to the Y's Girls. Miss Patricia Apperson led our ambitious young officers: president, Jack Cook; vice-president, Donna Beahm; secretary, Thelma Vandehy; treasurer, Evelyn Martin; and sergeant-at-arms, Glenn Wulf. Dick Casey entered the Lettermen Club.

With a little more boldness than the year before, the sophomores started out with an explosion. Our officers: president, David Fackler; vice president, Evelyn Martin; secretary, Katy Kruse; treasurer, Bryce Mitchell; sergeant-at-arms, Roger Delay; news reporter, Phyllis Mallory, and student council representative, Donna Beahm, helped Mrs. Mary Bates, our class advisor govern the class. Our charming blue eyed, dark haired princess, Katy Kruse, gave her all for the carnival. Patsy Hermens and Mary Frazier were elected to the Y's Girls. Don Thompson and Keith Morton were the only two sophomores admitted to the letterman club.

Thirty-nine very confident students began their Junior year with a smile. To keep them smiling were the officers: president, Ronald Russell; vice-president, Margaret Peck; secretary, Mary Frazier; treasurer, Jan Wein; and our advisor, Mr. Don Balch. Raven-haired Delores Fackler did her best representing us at the carnival. Velma Yates and Margaret Peck were elected to the Y's Girls. Velma Yates was chosen assistant-editor of the Tiger Lines and Rosemary Herring was chosen assistant-editor of the Ink Drops. Rosemary Herring, Evelyn Martin, Althea Wolcott and Velma Yates were added to the Quill and Scroll. Roland Russell and Glenn Wulf were admitted to the lettermen organization. The seniors were entertained by the class at a banquet, "Moonlight and Roses". It was enjoyed by all that attended this unforgettable occasion.

On September 11, 1950, we started our last year in high school. The student body officers from the class were: Bryce Mitchell, president; Althea Wolcott, secretary; David Fackler, business manager; and Evelyn Martin, book exchange manager. Our advisor, Mr. John Williams, governed our class with the help of the officers: president, Dick Casey; vice-president, Delores Fackler; secretary, Evelyn Martin; treasure, Lola Belt; and sergeant-at-arms, Phyllis Mallory. Our lovely fair princess, Velma Yates, was chosen queen at the Carnival. Carolyn Rice was chosen for the Y's Girls. The class was well represented in sports, and David Fackler and Jack Cook were admitted to the lettermen. The Seniors were very well entertained at a banquet given by the Juniors. In the spring the seniors took a day off from school for their Senior skip and had a very exciting time. The climax of our years' work was graduation week, with baccalaureate and commencement.

The Last Will and Testament

We, the Senior Class of Nineteen Hundred and Fifty One of the Yamhill Union High School, do hereby make and declare this our last will and testament, as attested on this fourth day of January:

To the Junior Class -- Our Senior honor, dignity, truest fidelity, sense of humor, excellent appearance, magnificent wisdom, which are the things we treasure most.

To the Sophomore Class, we will all our secondhand materials. May all the comments be used to the best of your ability.

To the Freshmen, we will our surpassing model as a class. Don't falter in following us.

To the faculty, we will a book of "child psychology".

And also each of us leaves an individual will. May you be guided by them.

I, Marjorie Bauer, will my "touch-me-not" disposition to Carol Hacker.

I, Lola Belt, will my hair to Emily Thies. You may add it to your own collection.

I, Dick Casey, will my flirting ability to Eldon Yates. Put it to good use.

I, Jack Cook, will my beard to Bill Irey. Let's see a little on your chin.

I, David Fackler, will my good looks to anyone.

I, Delores Fackler, will my piano playing to anyone that wishes to attempt it.

I, John Farley, will my ability to study without books to Marion Wigglesworth. Don't study too hard.

I, Mary Frazier, will my spiking ability to Anna Mae Loftis. Work hard. Maybe you will make it.

I, Doris Funkhouser, will my second year bookkeeping books to Winona Hampton. Don't throw them away.

I, Rosemary Herring, will the broken-down mimeograph to Carol Hamblin. (I hope it works better for her.)

I, Hazel Gene Hutchens, will my ability to skip school and get away with it to Audrey Nordmo, in hopes she makes good use of it.

I, Katy Kruse, will my flirting to Clara Roberts. Don't fail to use it.

I, Joann Light, will my old maidish ambitions to Mary Ann Weidner. (Don't worry Mary Ann. She will probably change her mind.)

I, Marvin Loftis, will my wavy hair to Oliver Reynoldson. You need it, "Boy".

I, Jerry Van Loo, will my unexcused absence notes to Mr. Gillis.

I, Phyllis Mallory, will my "wee bit of brain" that I obtained from Nick, to Keith Lowers. Carry it ever onwards.

I, Evelyn Martin, will my Book Exchange headaches to Lee Peloquin. Don't forget your aspirin.

I, Jim MacKinley, will my slow, even "pate" to Mark McColm. Take life easy, Mark.

I, Bryce Mitchell, will my ability to skip school in the principal's car and get away with it to anyone who dares.

I, Keith Morton, will my job as office boy to any boy that can remember to knock before entering the Home Ec. room.

I, Joane Paola, will my shy way to the freshmen girls. Please girls don't break my record.

I, Margaret Peck, will my ability to ask questions in Social Ec. class at the right moment to Pat Ohler.

I, Carolyn Rice, will my "laugh" to Marjorie Munro.

I, Ronald Russell, will my ability to get along with others to anyone that needs it. Use it well.

I, Don Thompson, will my day dreaming to the freshmen boys. Maybe there will be a little less noise.

I, Elzora Tupper, will my office position to Elaine Schmidt. Heaven help you!

I, Farrel Yates, will my music lessons to Edith Haugen. Maybe you can get out of class like I did.

I, Velma Yates, will my school activities to any one that can keep them going. May all have mercy on you, because you will need it.

I, Althea Wolcott, will my disposition to the teachers. You will need it more than I do when you get through.

I, Jan Wein, will my front seat in Social Ec. to anyone that is brave enough to sit there.

I, Glenn Wulf, will my ability of growing whiskers all over my face to Gene Barnes who only knows how to grow them on his chin.

We hereby will appoint Mr. John Williams, our class advisor, as sole executor of this document.

In witness there of we, the Senior Class, place our seal-X-upon this, our last will and testament.

HOW TO BE THE PERFECT SUB-DEB

Manners: Bounce down the hall, stepping on everybody, incurring many dirty looks and causing doors to be hastily shut. Bounce into your seat dropping not less than three books, and continue to chew your gum loudly, popping it occasionally until you are told to spit it out, then part with only half of it so you can be told to do it again.

Appearance: Come to school looking as if you had just gotten up, hair slightly combed, rouge applied to one side, your lips so red that they look like stoplights and your nose shining like grandpa's head.

By the time you have continued this for a month or two, you may be assured that you will be very well-liked.

REVISED ETTIQUETTE FOR THE BOYS

Boys, never tip your hats---it wears out the brim. Whistle all the time to show others you can---there are so many who can't. Stand around the hall in groups---it evinces a friendly spirit. Everyone should stop between classes to read the notices on the bulletin board---it proves "community interest".

CHEW GUM---it sounds good. If in a hurry, throw paper on the floor---the faculty is sure to appreciate it. Never pick up paper from the floor---the janitor is paid for that. Lean your chair against the wall---this way the wall won't fall down. Come late to class---helps to avoid the rush hour. Leave books lying around---that is the only way the teachers can tell you possess them. Always ask the teachers to repeat the question---it shows you were preoccupied. Shuffle your feet when walking down the hall---it keeps the shoes from falling off. Always talk to your neighbor when in class---it pleases the teachers. Leave all your work until the last week in the six weeks period---this shows your ability to act in an emergency. Build and fly to airplanes in school---it shows the craftsman in you. When at the movies, always read captions aloud---it shows others your pleasing voice. Share your candy with others in class---it shows to others your unselfishness.

The junior class play "The Redheaded Royalty from Arkansas" and the annual junior-senior prom were the highlight this year for the 28 members of the class. Lovely Shirley Stiller was our princess at the carnival. Carol Hamblin was elected into the Y's Girls. Mark McColm was chosen assistant editor of the annual and Carol Hamblin was chosen assistant editor of the "Ink Drops". Jerri Farleigh and Mary Jane Irey were elected yell leaders and Nadine Cook was elected song leader. Vincent Gillis was elected student body vice-president and Barbara Proebstel was elected student body treasurer. Eldon Yates was added to the already large number of lettermen from our room.

Sophomores

Vice President	Leonard Morelli
Secretary	Martha Latimer
Treasurer	Patsy Baker
Sgt. at Arms	Everett Swain

Eager to start their first year in Yarrhill High School, thirty-nine hopeful students enrolled on September 14, 1960. Following their initiation on October 6, our rookies forgot their tribulations by holding a large party. Our Freshman class was very active this year, and two, Everett Swain and Bob Dunning, were successful enough to be admitted into the letterman club their Freshman year. Larry Hermans and Everett Swain made the "A" team in basketball. Wanda Hamlin and Marjorie Barrett were elected into the V's Girls. Lastly, our entire class was very proud of our lovely carnival princess Marjorie Barrett.

First Row: Dick Casey, Velma Yates. Second Row: Alvin Stites, Marjorie Barrett, Bruce Springer, Donna Conner, Keith Lewers and Shirley Stiller.

The lights were low, the theme was Music, and Senior Princess Velma Yates was crowned the Queen of the Carnival.

The coronation took place on November 16, 1950, at 8:00 p.m., with Student Body President, Bryce Mitchell crowning Velma as Queen Velma I. She then officially declared the "land of make-believe" open. Her three lovely princesses were: Shirley Stiller, junior; Donna Conner, sophomore; and Marjorie Barrett, freshmen. Each princess was escorted and introduced by her class president. Everyone, young and old, reported having had an enjoyable evening at our annual gay festival, the Carnival.

Advisor	Mr. Ray McCord

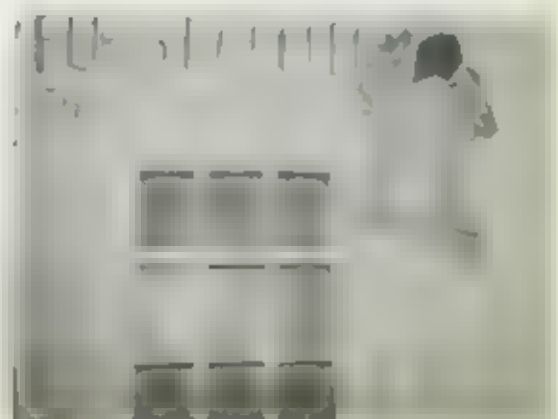

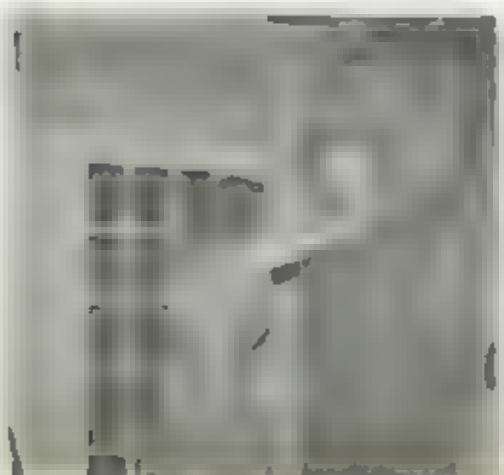

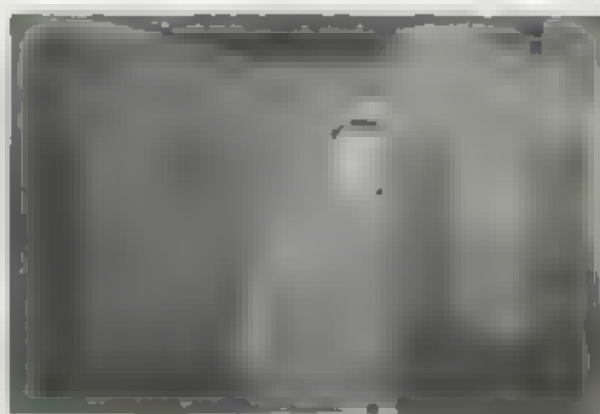

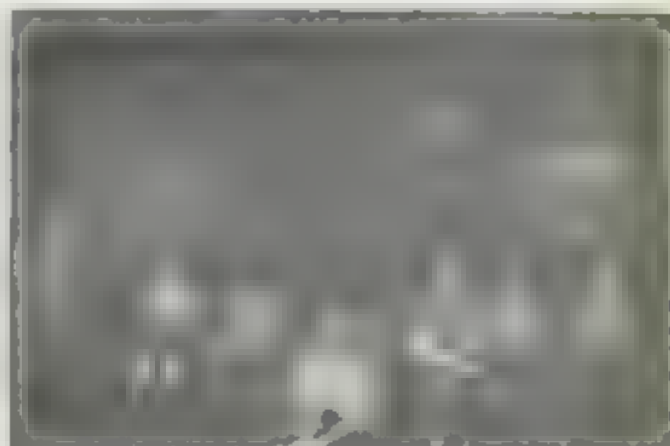

Mention of the night December 8, 1929 when the juniors "spoke it trippingly on the tongue" still brings a hearty chuckle to many a Ymhill resident. He or she yet remembers the comic plot of "The Redheaded Royalty from Arkansas"; a thing of fun and fancy, it concerned the arrival of one Prince Michaels to Furst College and the confusion surrounding his real name, "Prince". Impulsively the girls immediately assumed that his ill-fitting clothes and awkward manners were merely an eccentricity disguising his royal lineage. Spliced in with this angle were those of blackmail, and love. With the help of Fordyce Green, Prince set out to catch the villain and--of course--win the heart of Ethel.

The cast, after all the grease paint was rubbed off, costumes laid away, and life brought back to normal, agreed that putting on "The Redheaded Royalty from Arkansas" was a grand experience.

Battered and Frayed by all the activities crowding upon them toward the last of the year, the Seniors nevertheless presented their rip roaring comedy of the old west, "Desperate Ambrose," on April 20.

With the action laid in Dead Man's Gulch, the bloodiest, Shootin'est town West of the Rockies, the cast gave a lively spirited performance.

The plot centered around Ambrose Groves, the title character, who fell in and out of such great difficulties, assisted, of course by his friend, Bert Miller.

Opposing these Good Guys were the Bad Guys--the onnery critter of a sheriff and his cronies, Hootowl and Stinkweed.

The ladies, who were in the dutches of the villains for a while were Beth Malone, Anne and Nancy Martin.

A'llikeable Negro couple, Dan'l and Posie, furnished traditional comic relief.

In the end, of course, the play with the Good Guys marrying, the Good Gals and Beth Malone's winning an election for probate judge.

Members of the audience agreed that all who had a hand in producing "Desperate Ambrose" deserved a great deal of praise.

FOOTBALL

The Yamhill "Tigers" started the season off with a 20-19 victory over Gaston. They followed this win with a series of losses. But, in spite of these losses, the "scrapping" Tigers were the first to score against the two top teams of the league, Banks and Willamina.

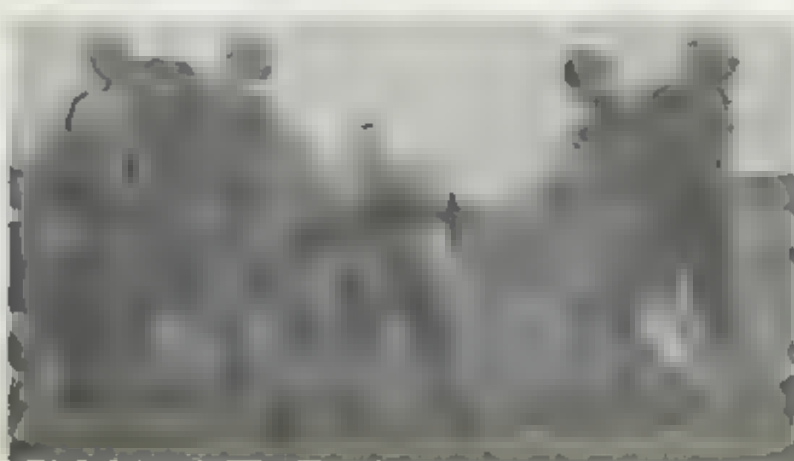

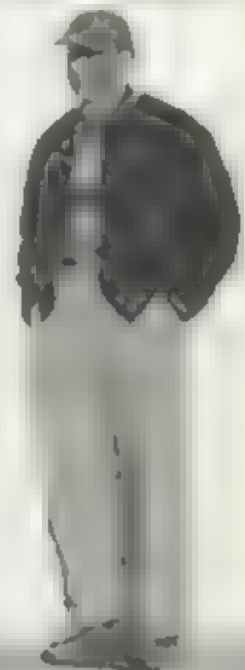

Much credit goes to this year's graduating seniors: David Fackler, Jack Cook, Dick Casey, and Don Thompson, who did a good job both offensively and defensively. However, special credit is given to the coaches, Mr. Don Balch and Mr. Keith Barker, for their leadership and guidance during the year.

Dick Casey was chosen by the football squad as the most valuable player of the year.

This year's team did not get to play many games; and those they did play resulted in high scores for the opposing teams. Actually the girls got very little practice out side of their P. E. class.

This year the team is losing a good player, Mary Frazier, who has been on the team during all her four years of high school.

The girls who will be graduating wish next year's team good-luck in all their games.
